PQFT Banca Performance Report

Jan'20

Economic Review

Large Scale Manufacturing (LSM) data showed decline of 5.93%YoY during 5MFY20 due to slow down in GDP growth to 3.3% in FY19 and it is anticipated to fall further to 2.4% in FY20, as per IMF estimates. Stabilization measures, which have taken in recent past, have started showing some signs of improvements in our economy; but it also has some negative consequences which can be evident in decline of LSM. The shrinkage in demand was witnessed across most sectors with automobiles, pharmaceuticals, petroleum, iron and steel products leading the decline.

Positive side of stabilization measures could be witnessed through decline in Current Account Deficit (CAD) by 80%YoY to USD 367mn in December 2019, taking cumulative 6MFY20 deficit to USD 2.2bn (1.5% of GDP) depicting a steep decline of around 75%YoY as compared to USD 8.6bn (5.8% of GDP) during the same period last year.

CPI inflation for the month of January 2020 clocked in at 14.56% due to higher than expected jump in House Rent Index and considerable jump in some non-perishable food item prices (sugar and wheat) due to supply shocks. Average CPI for 7MFY20 settled at 11.61% against 5.90% during same period last year. State Bank of Pakistan (SBP) at the end of outgoing month announced monetary policy and maintained status quo for third consecutive review at 13.25% in line with expectations. The recent fall in international commodity prices after epidemic breakout will allow to dilute inflationary pressures due to softer global demand outlook. International response to this has been to quarantine to contain any further spread-out. Amid such crisis, government stance will remain crucial on imports front and provide some room to central bank to initiate some monetary easing in latter half of calendar year.

Equity Market Review

The month of January 2020 could easily be divided in two halves to discuss performance of country's equity market. During the first half of the month, market carried forward the positive momentum of last four months consecutive positive closings, and rose by around 7%. However, the rally lost momentum during the latter half of the month due to rising noise in domestic politics, expectation of rise in inflation and global equity sell-off after coronavirus outbreak. KSE-100 settled fifth consecutive positive closing by posting a return 1.58% to close at 41,630 points. The index has cumulatively returned around 45% since its bottom touched on 16th of August 2019. Cements and Commercial Banks were the major positive contributors to the index.

Market activity dropped significantly from volume perspective as well as traded value perspective. Average daily value traded at USD 60mn down by 20%MoM and daily average of market volume stood at 247mn shares, down by 19%MoM. Foreigners remained net buyer of USD 2.9mn during the month as compared to an outflow of USD 11.3mn in December 2019. From the local side, Banks were the major buyer with USD 13.6mn worth of shares while Individuals were the major seller with USD 22.7mn.

As per our view last month, market has started testing investors' nerves from the latter half of the current month and we are expecting that short term volatility will persist in near future due to rise in inflation, political uncertainty, IMF's and FATF's review. We are expecting market to perform from latter half of this calendar year thus, we advise our participants to consolidate their position in stock market, keeping their long term investment objective in their mind.
